Cost-cutting Firm's prospects brighten

By Mike Myers

Staff writer

In an interview last week, Kokichi Hagiwara, chairman and chief executive officer of National Steel, said he was wanting to thank everyone at Granite City Steel for their cost-saving efforts in the second half of last year.

"I would like to also take this opportunity to ask them to continue their efforts this year and next year and in the years to come," he said.

Financial woes and uncertainty about the future kept Ronald Doerr from buying a new car last summer. But this year, Doerr said, "My wife has been after me and I'm probably going to buy one. I can look at things differently."

Doerr is the president and chief operating officer of National Steel, Granite City Steel's parent company and his change in attitude is a reflection in the change in his company's financial prospects.

Last summer, looking at the first half of 1991, Doerr saw his company had already lost $101.3 million — almost five times as much as it had earned in 1990, which had been considered a pretty good year.

Doerr decided it was time to bring the slide to an abrupt halt. In August, Doerr called together union and management leaders and told them

Bond hearing for Aquacenter

By Randy Vaughn

Staff writer

A Pontoon Beach Village Board special meeting on Monday could mark the beginning of an economic upsurge for Pontoon Beach and the rest of this area, Aquacenter Director Leonard Sonnenschein said Friday.

The board, which will meet at 7 p.m. at the Village Hall, will consider scheduling a public hearing for late March on approving sale of tax-exempt revenue bonds to finance the proposed Aquacenter.

With $1.25 million in bonds authorized during the fall, the Aquacenter currently is seeking commitments from potential bond buyers and has obtained commitments for about 80 percent of the total, Sonnenschein said.

Sale of the bonds would allow completion of the first phase, a 200,000-square-foot facility that would include an aquarium and other exhibits. It would be established in the Oakmont mall at 4020 Pontoon Road.

Sonnenschein said enactment of the hearing resolution could result in the start of architectural design work in early March, since the action would demonstrate that the village is willing to proceed with the project.

He had called for action on the resolution at a village board meeting last Tuesday, so that a definite bond-sale hearing date could be set. But Village Attorney Keith Jensen said he wanted first to consult with the bond counsel to ensure that the resolution was appropriately worded.

Voicing eagerness to make rapid progress, Sonnenschein says the Aquacenter might be opened to the public as early as

School incident prompts warning

By Randy Vaughn

Staff writer

An incident Friday morning prompted Granite City School officials to send out a warning to parents and students.

An unknown man grabbed a 14-year-old freshman girl student who was waiting for a bus at about 7:15 a.m. in front of the Granite City Fire Department, Madison Avenue and 23rd Street, police said.

The man was six feet tall, in his early 20s, with brown hair and a mustache. He was wearing a light brown coat, possibly corduroy, with jeans and a ragged T-shirt.

The girl noticed the man approaching behind her, but didn't react until he grabbed her. She was able to break away and run to the fire station, and firefighters took her to the police station.

School officials are investigating a possibly similar situation earlier last week. Superintendent Gib Walmsley said, adding that specifics were not available.

"The police are involved (in the latest investigation)," Walmsley said. "I wouldn't say that parents should necessarily be alarmed, but they should be involved and make their children aware of the situation."

Children should always be aware of who is around them, Granite City Police Chief Don Knight said, especially during morning hours when students are waiting for buses.

"Don't take anything for granted, and never get into a car," he said.

Parents should tell children to

Dunham continues strike

By Bonita Tillman

Staff writer

Despite a rumor that she was leaving the hospital Friday, renowned dancer Katherine Dunham remained at St. Mary's Hospital and continued her fast in protest of the U.S. policy against admitting Haitian refugees.

In the meantime, U.S. legislators were preparing to vote on a bill that would allow Haitian refugees to remain in the U.S. or at least in U.S. protective custody for 180 days.

Senators Paul Simon, D-Makanda, and Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, co-sponsored a bill in the Senate that won approval during a vote Thursday. A similar bill was before the U.S. House on Friday.

In a letter to President George Bush dated Feb. 21, U.S. Rep. Jerry F. Costello, D-Belleville, said the United States' actions since the fall of a democratic government in Haiti almost seem as if the U.S. is not following its own policies.

Venice dismissals on agenda

By Randy Vaughn

Staff writer

As occurred in recent years, the Venice School Board will hold a public hearing March 12 on honorable dismissal of teachers.

As in the past, there is hope that all faculty members ultimately will be retained, but it again will depend on whether adequate funding can be obtained.

However, voicing a note of caution, Superintendent John Rush said there is growing concern that that may not happen this year because of a continuing pattern of state and federal cuts in education funds.

The hearing will be held at 6 p.m. March 12 at the Venice Board of Education office. Similar hearings have been held in past years for Venice/Lincoln Technical Center and Chapter 1 program teachers. So far, none of the dismissals has proved to be permanent, Rush said Thursday night.

State law requires the board to notify teachers 60 days before the school year ends if there is a chance they will not be hired for the next school year, Rush said.

"Honorable dismissal means that, although there is a chance the teacher will be dismissed, they will probably be back when the funding returns," he said.

Budget cuts are certain for the Venice/Lincoln Technical Center, Director Peter Ponce said, adding that the amount is uncertain at this time.

Laundromat to give jobless free washes

The manager at Pub and Scrub Laundromat in Granite City wants to give the unemployed a helping hand while they are out of work.

Starting Monday, the laundromat will offer four free washes per month to those who bring in a current unemployment check stub.

"I got the idea off CNN. They did a story about a dry cleaner up in Pennsylvania, some where that started doing this," said Clay Van Fossan, Pub and Scrub manager.

The CNN broadcast said the dry cleaner's action spurred others to make offers for the unemployed. Van Fossan said he hopes his action will have a similar effect.

"With unemployment around 17 percent around here, we have to do something," he said. "I was talking to some of my regular customers about it and they started telling stories about how someone helped them when they were unemployed."

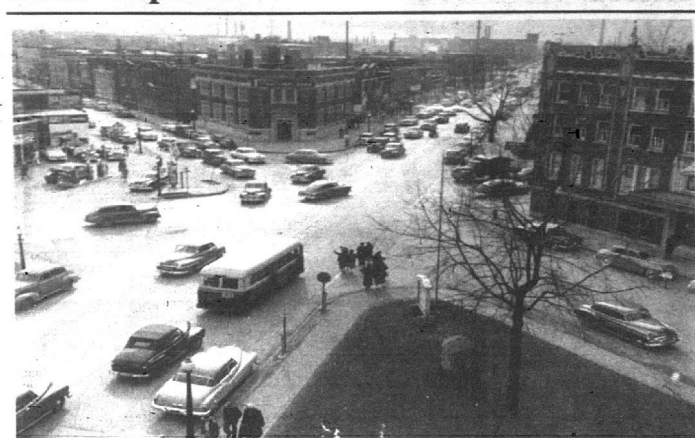

He said he planned to give the free washes on Monday through Fridays through the month of March.

"We'll do it through March and see how it goes," he said.

The Pub and Scrub Laundromat is at 3381 Felling Road. For more information on the program call 626-9212 or 344-8313.

Drug arrests increased by 190 percent in city in 1991

The Granite City Police Department traveled a total of 411,649 miles while patrolling city streets in 1991, the equivalent of 16 1/2 trips around the world.

Four vehicles and approximately $12,400 were seized and remanded to the department last year — the fruits of a two-man undercover drug team which no longer exists.

Drug-related arrests increased 190 percent in the city in 1991. These and other facts can be found in Police Chief Don Knight's 1991 report to the mayor and City Council.

According to the report, 60 arrests resulted in 48 charges were made due to the two-man drug detail. Crimes ranged from 28 misdemeanor cannabis possession charges to six felony charges of unlawful delivery of a controlled substance.

Two marijuana plants, nearly 5,000 grams of cannabis, five grams of powder cocaine, 49 crack cocaine rocks, 12 "hits" of acid, 13 Valium pills and 23 pills containing codeine were seized by the drug unit.

A 1989 Chevrolet, a 1988 Ford pickup truck, a 1985 Pontiac and a 1983 GMC pickup were seized and sold.

Only $1,435 in department funds (excluding the officers' compensation) was expended to accomplish these feats, according to the report.

The department's patrol division responded to 25,190 calls for service in 1991, an increase of 2 percent from the previous year. Officers put 411,649 miles on police vehicles while patrolling the streets, a 5 percent decrease from 1990.

Civil and domestic related problems were the most common call. Officers responded 4,253 times to those requests, an increase of 9 percent over 1990.

Traffic accidents were the second most common call (1,947), followed by alarms (1,822). Only about 1 percent of the alarm calls were related to actual offenses.

Police responded to 1,597 reports of suspicious persons or vehicles, and to 1,065 requests by persons who had locked their keys in their car.

Of the 463 complaints related to animals, 315 were answered by officers and 148 were forwarded to the city's humane officer.

Traffic citations numbering 3,461 were issued in 1991.

The detective division handled 3,271 cases last year, up 8 percent over 1990. Of these, 1,902 cases were cleared by arrest or unusual circumstances or were determined to be unfounded. Thirty-six percent of the assignments were felony related, with the remainder being misdemeanor or traffic offenses.

Of 18 deaths investigated, three were homicides, according to the report. Two convictions have been handed down, and two cases are still pending before the grand jury.

More than 300 felony informations and arrest warrants were issued by the state's attorney's office, an increase of 60 percent from 1990.

Of the issued charges, 159 are pending trial, 40 have been sentenced to the Illinois Department of Corrections, 106 were placed on probation or conditionally discharged, nine were dismissed and two were lost in trial.

Two vehicles were forfeited to the department as a result of detective follow-up investigations.

The department made a total of 9,479 arrests for the year, an increase of 2 1/2 percent. Of those, 689 were characterized as alcohol related (a 5 percent increase over 1990) and 116 were called drug related (a 190 percent increase).

Police log

Two booked for battery

Two Granite City men were charged with battering a third on Feb. 25. Raymond Norton, 18, of the 2800 block of Marshall Avenue and Glenn Harris, 22, of the 2200 block of Washington Avenue were booked for battery, trespassing and resisting arrest.

They allegedly had entered the home of Rodney Tankley, 24, of the 2800 block of Marshall and began arguing with him. When Tankley asked the two to leave, he said Harris remained, later striking Tankley in an eye.

Granite City

Tankley said he pushed Harris outside and onto the porch, which time Norton grabbed and struck him; Tankley fell to the ground and Harris started kicking him.

Both Harris and Norton allegedly struggled with police when officers attempted to handcuff them; Norton continued to struggle and was charged with an extra count of battery by an arresting officer.

Election time

The March primary, now just a few weeks away, features interesting races for a variety of posts, including some Madison County posts. See the Journal and Press-Record for continuing coverage.

Senate candidate denies unraveling report

U.S. Senate candidate Carol Moseley Braun says her campaign is alive and well, despite reports to the contrary.

During a campaign swing through the Metro East area Wednesday, Braun brushed off a report in a Chicago newspaper that her campaign organization is beset by dissension and "threatens to unravel."

Braun answered reporters' questions at a news conference at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She said her campaign was gathering momentum daily.

"This campaign is bordering on the electric," Braun said.

The recorder of deeds in Cook County is one of two candidates challenging incumbent Alan Dixon of Belleville for the Democratic nomination in the March 17 primary.

Braun said she was "within striking distance" of Dixon and expected to win, despite millions of dollars in television ads by Hofeld and Dixon.

"There's something wrong when the only way a candidate can access voters is to pump millions of dollars into TV advertising," Braun said. She said she was running an "old-fashioned, back-to-basics, person-to-person campaign."

"One of my opponents is trying to buy the seat; the other one thinks he already owns it and I'm trying to earn it," she said.

She said Dixon runs as a Democrat, behaves like a Republican and is "trying to re-invent himself for the campaign." As for Hofeld, he has no record of public service and is "trying to invent himself," she said.

Braun said that, unlike her opponents, she has a record of "productivity and keeping faith with the voters" in 18 years as a state representative and as Cook County recorder of deeds since 1988.

If she loses, she said, she would support the Democratic candidate in the general election.

"I'm going to support the Democratic nominee, and I'm going to vote for myself," she said.

Hofeld ranked some Democrats last week when he said he would not support Dixon if Dixon won the nomination.

Braun said she was running because Americans are suffering from more than "a decade of failed economic policies."

She said she was the only candidate in the race with a long record of active support for a universal health care plan. She said a government-operated, single-payer health insurance plan would not need new taxes.

Such a plan would produce huge administrative savings, while businesses no longer burdened by paying for health plans would become more profitable, thereby increasing tax revenues, Braun said.

She said she had a strong record of support for education and wanted to give youths "the kind and breadth of educational opportunities that I had when I came through the system."

Braun said voters who worry that losing Dixon might cut Illinois in federal projects should consider the fact that Illinois is 48th among the 50 states in the proportion of tax dollars returned through federal spending.

"Ask him how much bacon is being brought home," she said.

Braun visits, but skips TV ads

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Carol Moseley Braun cannot afford television coverage for her campaign, so she is spreading the word in person.

Braun, the recorder of deeds for Cook County, visited the Metro East area last week, talking to labor organizations, educators and women's groups about her campaign.

"I can't match my opponents dollar for dollar, so I'll just have to visit the people of Illinois in person," Braun told a group of spectators at the Belleville YMCA Wednesday afternoon.

She said her opponents, incumbent Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, and challenger Al Hofeld, D-Chicago, pay up to $200,000 for television commercials. Braun said there is not enough money in her campaign budget for that type of publicity.

She called the U.S. Senate the Millionaire Boys Club, and said she would like to be a part of the Senate to better represent women, African-Americans and working people.

"We have an obligation in these times to make government work better and make it an instrument of change," she said. The government needs to get back to basics, she said.

Now that the Cold War is over, the United States needs to support business, increase productive capabilities and stimulate growth in troubled industries, she told the gathering.

Education is the key to rebuilding America's productivity, she said.

"The Senate has lost touch with the American people. That is why we have faced a decade of failed policies," Braun said.

Braun began her political career as an assistant U.S. attorney general, and then served 10 years in the state Legislature, where she rose to the position of assistant majority whip and floor leader.

Briefly

Rotary Chili day is Tuesday

The Granite City Rotary Club's annual Chili Day will be held on Tuesday, March 3, at the Niedringhaus Methodist Church, 2008 and Delmar, between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The Rotary Club has been sponsoring this fund raising event for more than 20 years.

Chili Day co-chairmen Phil Valicoff and Brett Hanke said, "This event, which together with our citrus sale in December raises the bulk of the money our club is able to donate to charity, serves as a dual function. Because our entire membership gets behind us and works during Chili Day we add to the feeling of comradeship that is so prevalent throughout the Granite City Rotary and we are able to raise a substantial amount of money for charity and civic betterment. This year our Chili Day proceeds are going to local charitable and civic programs."

"Tickets for Chili Day can be purchased from any member of the Granite City Rotary Club or at the Niedringhaus Methodist Church on the day of the event."

Diabetes Support Group formed

A new Diabetes Support Group, which is open to diabetics, their families and friends, will be meeting on the first Tuesday of each month, at 1 p.m., in the President's Room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

A spokesman said, "If you know what it is like to pass up that handful of M and Ms or push back the dessert plate at a luncheon because of diabetes, you are not alone."

"Today, more than 11 million people in the United States have diabetes, making it one of the worst diseases of our time, according to the American Diabetes Association."

"Unfortunately, almost half of the people with diabetes do not know they have this chronic disease, even though 500,000 more Americans are diagnosed each year."

"Often, the lifestyle changes the diabetic, their families and friends have to make are difficult. Being able to share frustrations can help, as can emotional support and companionship with people who share the same concerns and needs."

Kathy Haarmann, RN, BSN, diabetes educator and patient education coordinator at SEMC, said:

Those interested in learning more about the Diabetes Support Group may call SEMC at 798-3301.

Homemakers will meet

"Water Quality: It Affects Us All" will be featured as the topic of study by local leaders at Homemakers Extension Association unit meetings.

Dates and times include: Tuesday, March 3, Trio Unit, noon at Hope Lutheran Church, 3715 Wabash Ave., and Granite City Unit, noon at Nameoki Presbyterian Church, Pontoon Road.

Dr. Edwards to address group

The Outpatient Services area of the Keiteler Center and Children with Attention Deficit Disorder (CHADD) of Madison/St. Clair will welcome James Edwards, MD, of the Psychiatric Center of Creve Coeur Ltd. as their next guest speaker.

Edwards will speak from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, March 3, in the President's Room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 2100 Madison Ave., Granite City.

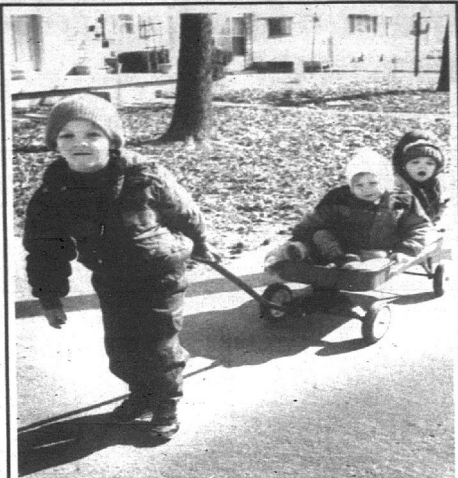

He will talk during the second half of the ADHD (Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder) Parent Support Group meeting, which will begin with a business session from 7 p.m. to 7:50 p.m.

Newcomers are welcome to both sessions. "It is estimated that ADHD occurs in 3 to 5 percent of children," said Dr. Teresa White, director of the Keiteler Center's Outpatient Services and consultant to the CHADD group. "That adds up to two million school-aged children with the disorder."

"Within Madison and St. Clair counties, there may be as many as 4,000 school-aged children with ADHD. It is one of the most common reasons for referrals to outpatient mental health clinics."

The ADHD Parent Support Group is designed to educate participants about ADHD and provide them with support and information on community resources. They meet on the first Tuesday of each month.

Persons may call Dr. White at 798-3608 for more information.

Free blood pressure screenings

Free blood pressure screenings will be offered from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Monday, March 2, at the new Wal-Mart store near West Pontoon Road and Illinois Route 3.

Registered nurses in St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Cardio Pulmonary Rehab Program will test individuals' blood pressure.

Nearly 3.5 million people in Illinois have an increased risk of illness and death due to hypertension, also known as high blood pressure, a spokesman said.

An estimated one million Illinoisans are not aware of their condition, and another 600,000 are aware of, but not controlling, their condition.

Untreated high blood pressure can lead to a heart attack, stroke or kidney disease.

A blood pressure reading has two numbers, 120/80 for example. The top number is the systolic pressure. It measures the blood flowing in an artery as the heart beats. The bottom number is the diastolic pressure, the force of blood while the heart is resting.

Generally, a reading of 120/80 is within a "normal" range. A reading of 160/95 or higher may indicate high blood pressure, depending on age and health condition.

Blood pressure may also vary during the day, depending on how active one has been. More than one reading may be necessary to determine what is "normal" for an individual.

High blood pressure is often called the silent killer. Many people who have it notice no symptoms and feel fine during the early stages. It can be easily treated if detected early. Anyone can have high blood pressure, but it tends to run in families and is more common among men.

Women may develop hypertension while pregnant or taking birth control pills. Blacks are twice as prone to high blood pressure. People who are short and heavy or overweight are also in greater danger.

Some possible symptoms of high blood pressure are: breathlessness; nosebleeds with no apparent cause; severe localized headaches that occur early in the morning and are accompanied by nausea; and dizziness.

"These symptoms do not mean you have hypertension," said Bev Motil, RN, Cardio Pulmonary Rehab coordinator. "But you should have your blood pressure checked and see your doctor."

Four suspended at SIUE in parking case

SIUE authorities are investigating alleged "procedure violations" in the office that enforces parking on campus.

Four parking service agents who work for the Office of Vehicle Registration and Fees have been suspended with pay pending the outcome of an audit and police investigation.

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville spokesman Sam Smith said, "There is an investigation going on. They have called in university auditors to assist police."

Campus officials, Smith said, would not release any details of the case. He did say the office handles parking enforcement and that money from parking decals and fines goes through the office.

The investigation "covers apparently all procedures in the office," Smith said.

Complaints to university authorities about the agents sparked the investigation Feb. 13, Smith said. Campus officials declined to say what the complaints were. The head of the office referred questions to Smith.

The four agents, all civil-service employees, have been suspended from work until a hearing can be scheduled after auditors finish reviewing the office's books.

The most recent of the suspensions went into effect Feb. 25, Smith said.

The office on the first floor of the Rendleman Building handles the registration and fee payment of all vehicles driven by the more than 11,000 students and 2,000 faculty and staff.

Parking agents also handle the enforcement of campus parking rules, including parking-meter and decal violations, under the direction of campus police.

"There is money going into that office for the purchase of decals, for payment of parking fines and for collection of meter violations," Smith said.

He added that he was unable to give even a rough estimate of the dollar amount.

CUB asks state to block Illinois Power rate increase

The Citizens Utility Board has asked state regulators to halt a $100 million rate increase approved for Illinois Power while the state considers whether the increase should be reduced.

In a motion filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission, attorneys for the consumer group argued that the increase is excessive and includes charges of a type that have been deemed illegal by the state Supreme Court.

CUB is asking the commission to halt the increase and to conduct additional hearings to remove those charges from rates, a process that could take as long as five months.

In the order approving the $100 million rate hike, issued Feb. 11, the ICC acknowledged that the increase includes "deferred charges" that the Illinois Supreme Court in another case has said should not be included in rates.

"The ICC itself has all but acknowledged that this rate hike is excessive," CUB President Bernard Puglisi said.

"The letter and the spirit of the law require that the increase be blocked until the commission determines the fair and legal rates for consumers."

CUB estimates that the increase could be slashed by as much as $50 million if the agency complies with a ruling by the state Supreme Court.

That ruling, issued in a Commonwealth Edison case, said ratepayers cannot be billed for deferred charges that allow a utility to profit from delays in obtaining rate increases.

The rate hike allows the company to recover deferred charges dating back to 1986 when the Clinton nuclear-powered electricity-generating plant went into service. Those charges were approved in prior rate cases and the company sought to increase the charges in the latest case.

The ICC adopted CUB's arguments and barred the new charges from rates, but refused to eliminate the charges approved in prior cases, the CUB said.

SIUE University Center celebrating 25 years

The 25th anniversary of the opening of the University Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be celebrated March 2-6.

Festivities will include an exhibition of photographs highlighting events which have occurred over the past 25 years, highlighting building construction, student and volunteer activities, programs and other building activities.

The exhibition will be on display all week on the first-floor North Gallery Wall.

A group photograph will be taken of all University Center and staff employees on Tuesday, March 3, at 2:30 p.m. in the Goshen Lounge. All retired and those previously employed by the Center are invited to participate.

A public celebration is scheduled Wednesday, March 4, at 11:30 a.m. in the Goshen Lounge.

The focus of attention will be a five-foot cake, a replica of the University Center building, which will be served to guests. Music will be provided by a string quartet of SIUE student musicians.

The Center opened for the first time March 3, 1967. Previously, all campus activities and food services were centered in the Lovejoy Library basement, according to Lyle Ward, assistant director of the Center.

Since then, the Center has served more than 30 million persons, averaging approximately 6,000 each day when classes are in session.

Ward said nearly 4,000 activities and meetings are held in the building each year, including such events as the Very Special Arts Festival, student career fairs, the annual Senior Citizens Fair, health fairs, the SIUE School of Dental Medicine commencement ceremonies, arts and craft shows, speakers of international renown, performances by numerous bands and orchestras, as well as many other activities.

"Since the day we opened, the University Center has been more than just a building providing services. It has provided an environment well-designed to bring people together... to study in the lounges, to participate in student programs, and to attend meetings," Ward said.

For additional information, call 692-2300.

About 300 students from 17 schools will compete at the regional level of the Illinois High School Mathematics Contest to be conducted at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Saturday, March 7.

Schools entered in the SIUE regional include:

(Class AA) Belleville West, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Granite City, Highland, Jersey Community at Jerseyville, Mascoutah and O'Fallon.

Coordinator Paul Phillips, professor of mathematics at the university, said contestants will compete as individuals and on teams representing their schools.

Organized by the Illinois Council

Winners of the SIUE regional will advance to the state finals at Illinois State University in Normal on April 25.

The contest is open to students in grades nine through 12. There are six events, ranging from oral competition to calculator and team competition.

Busy month for Mounds

The Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site will herald the approach of spring with a busy schedule of activities during March.

On Friday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m., Joseph Bruchac will present a storytelling program, "Keepers of the Earth," in the Interpretive Center auditorium.

Bruchac, an Abenaki Indian, is an internationally renowned storyteller, author and poet. He has written several books on Indian myths, legends and stories.

The program is sponsored by the Cahokia Mounds Museum Society, the Southern Illinois Arts Council and Riverwide, a St. Louis-based storytelling organization. The event is free and open to the public.

On Sunday morning, March 22, there will be an observance of the spring equinox sunrise at the reconstructed Woodhenge sun calendar.

Observers should gather by 5:45 a.m. to get a place to park and to hear a presentation on the discovery and function of Woodhenge. The sunrise is described as impressive on the equinox, emerging from the front of Monks Mound, which is one-half mile due east of Woodhenge. The event is free and refreshments will be available.

The winter lecture series continues Sunday, March 22, at 1:30 p.m. in the Interpretive Center auditorium, with a presentation by Dr. Cynthia Radding on "The Spanish and Indian Encounter in Mexico."

Radding is a historian and a professor at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. The lecture is free.

An adult craft class on the making of Choctaw blowguns will be held Saturday, March 28, from 1-4 p.m. The class will be taught by Wood Bell, a Choctaw Indian from Memphis, Tenn. Advance registration and a nominal fee are required.

Leonard Blake, a long-time volunteer at Cahokia Mounds and a specialist in the identification of plant remains from archaeological sites, will be the honoree at the 1992 Moundbuilder Award Banquet to be held Sunday, March 29. A "roast" will be presented by Blake's friends and colleagues.

The banquet starts at 6:30 p.m. at the Interpretive Center, and includes hors d'oeuvres, drinks and a buffet dinner. The cost is $15 per person, and the event is open to the public.

Seating is limited, so reservations must be made by March 13 by calling 344-9221.

Special arts workshop Saturday at SIUE

The Very Special Arts Program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will conduct a workshop, Saturday, March 7, for area teachers wishing to participate in this year's children's festival.

The workshop is scheduled from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. The location will be announced later. Registration is $25.

The festival is scheduled April 2-3.

The workshop, "Art Techniques for Survival in the Classroom," will include projects and activities that incorporate arts into the class curriculum.

This year's festival theme is "Save Our Rainbow." Dee Restrepo, director of the program, said the two-day event will showcase local talent and artistic skills that are in all school children, both disabled and non-disabled.

Red Cross offering targeted AIDS education programs

"Since the Magic Johnson revelation we have been flooded with calls," said Chris Edwards, director of community health and education for the Bi-State Chapter of the American Red Cross.

To meet the demand, the Red Cross offers a variety of educational programs, available to businesses and groups, to provide information about the disease.

"Targeted and widespread education is the only solution for preventing the further destruction of lives during this national HIV/AIDS crisis," Edwards said.

As of October 1991, nearly 200,000 were reported as having been diagnosed with AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) in the United States, with more than 126,000 dying, according to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta.

In Missouri, 2,429 cases were reported, with 1,341 deaths. In Illinois, as of August 1991, 5,463 cases had been reported, with 3,619 deaths, according to CDC.

St. Louis County has accumulated 315 cases, with 197 deaths, and St. Louis city has had 629 cases, with 349 deaths, according to the Missouri Department of Health Bureau of AIDS Prevention.

To meet the challenge of educating a diverse community, the Red Cross since 1985 has been offering specific courses designed to reach out to various groups, such as schools, community organizations, the workplace, and in the home.

In 1991, over 12,000 persons have been informed and educated regarding HIV/AIDS through the Bi-State Chapter of the Red Cross.

Newer programs have been designed for African Americans and Hispanics.

"All of our programs are culturally sensitive," said Al Schon, also of the chapter's Community Health and Education Department. "We are not judgmental, and don't take sides," he said.

The Worksite Program is tailored to each individual business. "For instance, there may be different concerns at a construction site as opposed to a bank," Schon explained.

Another program called "AIDS and the Health Care Provider" provides in-depth information for professionals working in the health care environment.

On the other hand, the "Community Care Giver" course provides information for non-professional family members, friends, or partners who may be caring for HIV/AIDS in the home.

"In this program, the home care giver is taught coping skills and other key aspects of caring for a loved one," Schon said.

The "Executive Management of HIV On-the-Job" seminar introduces executive and management personnel to HIV/AIDS and its impact on the workplace, and discusses ways to effectively plan for its occurrence.

The "Student Peer Instructor" program is offered to middle school and high school students who want to deliver instruction at their schools. In addition, there is a general instructor course that trains any participants (over 17 years of age) to deliver education to community audiences.

The African American instructor course prepares participants to deliver HIV/AIDS instruction to African American youth and families. According to Schon, 120 people completed this course in 1991.

There is also a training program for the African American workplace, supplying pamphlets and videotapes for employees to take home for their families.

One of the newest courses is the Hispanic HIV education course, which offers bilingual instruction. Seven volunteers were recently certified as Hispanic instructors, Schon said.

For more information concerning courses or any other questions, persons may call the Red Cross at (314) 658-2000 or call the Red Cross AIDS hot line at (314) 658-5850.

come," Hagiwara said.

"Looking at Granite City, and at our other plants, we will see production is at a fairly high level. But the price of steel is quite low, at the 1992 level."

Hagiwara said the labor contracts already negotiated mean the company's labor costs will increase and, to compensate for that, employees must continue their effort to reduce costs if National Steel is to survive.

Ronald Doerr, National Steel's president and chief operating officer, echoed Hagiwara and called the opening of this year "touch and go" for the company because of low selling prices.

National Steel has a history of large losses in the first quarter of the year, Doerr said, and "I'm sure one of Mr. Hagiwara's priorities is to overcome this first-quarter syndrome."

Doerr said he realized that some people thought his meeting last August, at which he painted a bleak future for the company unless drastic performance changes were made, was some kind of scare tactic aimed at getting concessions from the union.

"But, really, I had that meeting to avoid having to hold a different kind of meeting, a meeting where I'd be talking about things I didn't want to talk about," Doerr said.

If the performance had not improved, Doerr said, instead of thanking the workers, National Steel would now be talking about contract renegotiation, massive layoffs, plant shutdowns and "all the other things that were rumored" after Doerr's meeting.

Hagiwara said the workers had shown they could achieve good results when they set out to stop losing money.

"Now we must continue the effort," Hagiwara said. "And next we will try to earn some money."

Both Hagiwara and Doerr said the goal of National Steel is to keep everyone employed and, someday, maybe even increase employment.

Right now, they said, customer satisfaction is very high and, in an improved economy they feel National Steel has a bright future.

But, Doerr said, that improved economy is not guaranteed and, despite the fact the market place was not going to help us, we continued an aggressive capital improvement program.

"I don't think there is any doubt that improvements have and, despite the fact the market place was not going to help us, we continued an aggressive capital improvement program."

"The workers responded by digging deeper, staying focused, and putting all their effort into improving the plant."

While Doerr said some of the effort may have been a case of good men rising up to meet the times, he said he believes the success of the efforts is due to a permanent change in the way people see their role in the company.

"I was on the shop floor in Granite City (a week ago) Friday and it has not stopped," Doerr said. "I had one specific question: 'How do you feel about what's happening and have you seen changes?'"

"What I found were people listening, working together, making things happen."

"I think the focus is still there. Going around to our divisions, I see people wanting to continue to do whatever they can to top last year."

Doerr said that, after the announcement of the third-quarter results, which showed a loss of "only $3.3 million," everyone began to really believe in their ability to determine the destiny of the company.

The effort continued; the goal was reached; the company began to improve.

"It was the culmination of a lot of work," Doerr said.

"We had a desire to continue and, despite the fact the market place was not going to help us, we continued an aggressive capital improvement program."

Prospects

that everyone must "work harder and work smarter or face the very real possibility of not working at all."

He said that, unless the company broke even in the second half of the year, it was possible that National Steel could cease to exist.

Because no help was coming from the marketplace, Doerr said, the employees were on their own when it came to stopping the losses.

"I never doubted it could be done," Doerr said. "And I had a fair amount of confidence it would be done."

The National Steel cooperative partnership with the United Steelworkers union had already begun looking at ways to save money and increase production, Doerr said, and lists of money-saving projects had been compiled by everyone from top management to the workers on the shop floor.

"Everybody was talking about it, but that was the problem. There was talking, but little action. I wanted to stop talking and make things happen," Doerr said.

Doerr said the inaction was due to things like provincialism, fear of requesting funding for a money-saving idea, fear of asking another department for its help, or fear of stepping on another department's toes when developing a money-saving idea.

"It was a matter of exciting the people enough to put things in motion," Doerr said. "I know it has become a cliché, but it comes down to empowerment."

"(The workers) had to believe they could go out and make things happen."

The union leaders were very receptive," Doerr said, and because of the cooperative program set up in 1983-84, "we had built up a level of trust and credibility."

"As a result, when I told them how much trouble we were in, there was a willingness to accept that 'these are the facts.'"

The warning worked, Doerr said, and things started changing almost immediately.

He said the company got "very strong leadership" from the union representatives, and almost every local president stepped up with strong support.

By October, the company was seeing results, and, at the time, Doerr said the "profuse bleeding has slowed to a trickle."

He said that, after the announcement of the third-quarter results, which showed a loss of "only $3.3 million," everyone began to really believe in their

He said it is hoped that the first phase would help finance the second phase, which could be located on a 58-acre site at Interstate 270 and Illinois Route 111.

He speculated that this phase might be completed three to five years after the opening of the first phase. The eventual cost is projected at $33 million.

"We're expecting Phase One to not only provide financing, but also to serve as a proving ground so that other investors would be willing to sponsor it," he said.

Dan Gray to return to St. Louis, KSDK-TV

By Ian MacBryde
Correspondent

North County native Dan Gray is returning to St. Louis as an anchor for KSDK-TV (Channel 5). Gray, who was an anchor/reporter at KMOV-TV (Channel 4) between 1985 and 1987, will co-anchor Channel 5's 6 p.m. newscast Monday through Friday with Deanne Lane.

Gray, who joins the station March 2, is currently anchoring 5 and 11 p.m. newscasts for a station in Sacramento, Calif. Gray's appointment to the 6 p.m. newscast seems to affirm Rick Edlund's role as an anchor of Channel 5's 5 and 10 p.m. programs. Edlund has been co-anchoring with Karen Foss since Dick Ford announced his defection to KTVI-TV (Channel 2) last year. (Under the terms of his contract, Ford will not be able to appear on the air for Channel 2 until July 3.)

There had been some speculation that Channel 5 would try to replace Ford with an anchor from another market with "heavyweight" credentials — perhaps even someone who had a proved track record in St. Louis. Apparently station management — perhaps even upper-level management at Multimedia which owns the station — has decided to stand pat. Multimedia, incidentally, acquired a station in Cleveland in December 1990, which apparently has soaked up a major share of the company's resources.

Channel 5 has dominated the market for the last several years, but its ratings have been slipping somewhat over recent months with the loss of a number of key management people, as well as Ford.

In incomplete ratings for the important February rating period, Channel 4, benefiting from its Olympic coverage, has made serious inroads into Channel 5's dominance at 10 p.m., and Channel 2 has made some progress at 5 p.m.

Over-Exposure
Television is a demanding medium. Performers become popular by doing certain things. In order to say popular they tend to do the same things over and over — only more so. Some performers succeed only in stretching those things that made them good to the point where they are repetitive, boring, ridiculous — or all of the above.

Case in point — college basketball analyst Dick Vitale. When Vitale began his stint with ESPN — and later ABC — he was refreshing because he was different. His high-level energy, his jargon, his insight into the personalities of the game and his apparent knowledge of the recruiting which is so vital to college basketball success, was not available anywhere else.

On a recent ABC telecast (Florida State vs. DePaul, Feb. 23) with former coach Jim Valvano, Vitale discussed football and everything else except the way the game was being played. "Enough football talk," Valvano said, who went on to make a point about the game we were watching.

"Get a TO (time out), baby."

directed from Vitale to a coach, has become such a cliché I have begun to hear small children say it. And the problem is that the more Vitale talks the less he appears to know. Vitale has become Howard Cosell, although neither of them would appreciate the comparison. But as their careers wore on, each became a caricature of himself.

It doesn't have to be that way. CBS' Billy Packer has been doing basketball for years, and he hasn't fallen into the "more is better" trap. Other good ones: ESPN's Len Elmore and Clark Kellogg.

Ian MacBryde is an independent video producer and former television executive.

Tesla scored unexpected success with acoustic album.

By Alan Sculley
Correspondent

Tesla's "Five Man Acoustic Jam" wasn't expected to be a hit. In fact, when the band recorded it, there were no plans to release the album.

"You know, we recorded it just for our own library or whatever, or maybe for later on down for a home video in a couple of years," said Jeff Keith, Tesla's lead singer.

Instead, a version of "Signs," a song originally recorded by The Five Man Electric Band, became Tesla's biggest hit song.

"Five Man Acoustic Jam," in turn, went platinum.

While the success was certainly welcome, it did create one unwelcome byproduct, Keith said. Suddenly a lot of people thought Tesla was an acoustic band.

So with the studio follow-up record, "Psychotic Supper," Tesla is out to silence that notion the best way its members know how — with plenty of speaker-rattling electric rock 'n' roll.

"We really like to stress the fact that it was not a direction taken," Keith said of the acoustic record. "That's why the album 'Psychotic Supper,' I think came out even harsher because of the fact that's how we are. And plus on top of that we had to prove people that the acoustic thing was just a fluke."

The return to an electric sound won't surprise longtime fans of this Sacramento, Calif., quintet. In addition to Keith, Tesla also includes guitarists Frank Hannon and Tommy Skeoch, bassist Brian Wheat and drummer Troy Luccketta.

Like the new record, Tesla's first two albums, "Mechanical Resonance" from 1986 and "The Great Radio Controversy" from 1989, both offered a no-frills mix of hard rock and power ballads, with a decided emphasis on electric, not acoustic guitars.

That's not to say "Psychotic Supper" is a clone of early Tesla albums. In particular, the songs "Stir It Up" and "What You Give" reveal a greater ability to craft textured but sturdy ballads.

Keith said "Psychotic Supper" was also the first time Tesla got to make the album the band really wanted.

"There was no compromise this time," he said. "It was just between the band instead of with the record company and management and choosing songs to go on the album. They just kind of stepped aside and just said, 'You guys do what you want. They gave us that freedom.'"

"I think we've been dying to do an album like this right from the start," he said. "The acoustic album made us feel we could be accepted more in our raw form."

Tesla, however, still tested its management by insisting on putting five songs on "Psychotic Supper" that had been recorded but rejected for "The Great Radio Controversy," including "Psychotic Supper's" high-octave opening cut, "Change In The Weather," and "Had Enough."

"They really had to just kind of grit their teeth on this, especially on those five songs they had already heard that were written for 'The Great Radio Controversy,'" Keith said of Tesla's management and record company. "That was really tearing them up because they were going, 'Man, we've heard this. We want some more new stuff... and the guys want to put these damn songs on there.'"

In the end, all concerned profess happiness with "Psychotic Supper" — even the five songs left over from "The Great Radio Controversy."

"I think the performances on them, they really liked them," Keith said. "It changed their mind on a lot of the songs. I think they saw how much we fought for the songs and they just gave us a chance. And we're loving them for it."

"Psychotic Supper's" hard edge doesn't stop with the music. With the songs "Edison's Medicine" and "Freedom Slaves," Keith shows a topical side that has rarely emerged before in his lyrics.

"Edison's Medicine" deals with the band's namesake, Nikola Tesla, a scientist who worked with Thomas Edison and has only recently begun to gain credit for his pivotal role in the discovery of electricity. Keith agrees with some authorities who in fact are beginning to question whether Tesla, and not Edison, should be considered the real father of electricity.

"Freedom Slaves" touches on America's treatment of Indians and slaves.

"I'm happy and fine with where I live," Keith said. "I'll always want to live in the United States because it was where I was born and raised and it's a great place. But at the same time, I can't forget the fact that there were some really (terrible) things like slavery and how the Indians really were taken over."

"These are things you hear people talking about every day and yet they want to be hush, hush about it," he said. "The hell with that. We can be heard a little bit by someone. Let's go ahead and speak up."

Tesla headlines a March 15 concert at the Fox Theatre. Tickets for the 7:30 p.m. show, which also includes opening act Firehouse, are $18.50.

In concert news, Eddie Money has been booked to play an acoustic show with his band on March 20 at the American Theatre. Tickets for the 8 p.m. show are $19.50.

Other new bookings include: • Dramarama with guest The Real People, March 19 at Mississippi Nights. Tickets are $8 in advance, $10 day of show.

• Phish, March 29 at Mississippi Nights. Tickets are $7 in advance, $9 day of show. The Marshall Tucker Band, 8 p.m. April 4 at the Westport Playhouse. Tickets are $17.50.

The Freeburg Midgets stood plenty tall Friday night. They won their first regional in 10 years with a resounding 63-56 victory over the Troyans to advance to the Vandallia Invitational at 7:30 p.m. game Wednesday against the winner of the St. Louis regional. Either Farina or South Central or St. Louis.

The Midgets (22-5) got 27 points from Clint Bickett and 18 each from Jim Janssen and Mike Smith. Freeburg was connected on 23 of 35 shots. The Troyans could never get untracked after taking a 21-20 lead in the second quarter and finished the season with a 19-12 record.

Williams, a 6-4 junior, had 16 points, but 12 of them had come by the time Madison had its one lead of the night early in the second quarter. After the Midgents took a 19-9 lead after one quarter, the Trojans started the second quarter on a 12-1 run.

The Redbirds labored through a horrid start and never fully recovered despite their 60-point second half as the Warriors held off Alton 85-78 to wrap up second place in the Southwestern Conference. Collinsville clinched its 38th SWC title with a 64-58 home win over East St. Louis on Friday.

Alton couldn't sustain whatever momentum it gained from last weekend's two victories that ended a seven-game losing streak. The Redbirds missed their first eight shots from the field and the Warriors led 12-0 before Curtis Robinson made a steal and scored on an uncontested layup with two minutes left in the opening quarter.

which ended on Williams' layup on a good pass from Lott.

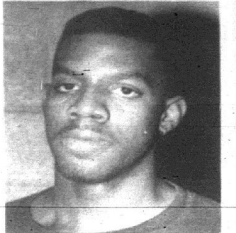

But Janssen came right back and hit a three-pointer less than 10 seconds later for a 23-21 Mid-east lead. It was 36-29 by halftime and 54-44 after three quarters. The Trojans committed 20 of their 27 fouls in the second half and the Midgets hit 13 of 19 free throws in the fourth quarter to blow it open. Madison also missed its last 14 field goal attempts and shot only 31 percent (20 of 65) on the night.

"These kids will meet a lot of adversity in life, so they have to handle this," said coach Al Collins. "We just didn't do the job. Freeburg didn't really do anything differently than the other night (when they struggled to beat Alhambra). I didn't think we would be nervous, but I guess we were."

Collins also felt his team suffered a letdown after an exciting 51-49 win over archrival Venice in the semifinals Wednesday.

"When we won that one we acted like we had won the state championship," said Collins. "We didn't realize we had one more game to play here."

The Midgets might have been in trouble when Behrman, the 6-6 senior center, picked up three quick fouls, but they took control instead. "I was concerned because we had to put Ryan Diecker in there," said Hearne. "He's going to be a good player, but he's just a sophomore. But we got some good play off the bench from David Hill and Todd Buescher, and Bickett kept hitting the big shots."

Lott was the only Trojan besides Williams in double figures as he scored 12. Lott, Cernyn Macon and Willie Woodson graduate, but there is some good talent returning led by Williams.

"I don't know right now if I'll be back," said Collins. "I have a decision to make. But there's plenty of talent. I just hate it for the seniors. I thought we could at least make it back to the super-sectional this year, and I would still like to go to state once."

quarter as Alton made only 1 of 11 field goal attempts and committing seven turnovers.

"When you only score two points in the first quarter and turn it over 16 times in a half, you shouldn't even be in the (darn) ballgame," said Redbird coach Stan McAfoos.

The Redbirds weren't until they got red-hot in the game's final two minutes. Alton, which trailed 77-55 with three minutes left, nailed three 3-pointers in a span of 20 seconds to trigger a rally that saw the Warriors lead evaporate to 82-76 with 1:35 left, where the comeback died.

"We let it get ratty on us, but that's the way Alton wanted to play and they made a lot of good shots," said Granite City coach Bill Ohlendorf, whose team takes the No. 3 seed into their 7:30 p.m. regional opener Wednesday at home against Taylorville.

"We lost our composure a little bit and started to run up and down the floor with them."

Marshall led the onslaught with four 4-pointers. Brian Smith scored 18 points and twin brother Jeff Smith had 14 points and 11 rebounds. Leroy Samuels was also in double figures with 11 and Larry Mosby dished out eight assists.

Chris Harris led Alton with 24 points. Demp Thomas had 19 and Curtis Robinson and Justin Holloway scored 10 points apiece.

"The Warriors led 24-6 before Alton awoke from its slumber with a 3-pointer by Thomas and 10 straight points by the 6-3 Harris to trail 37-18 at halftime."

"In the first half, we stuck to what we wanted to do, we played awfully good defense and we were able to get it done easily," Ohlendorf said. "But give credit to Alton. They came back and fought us pretty well."

The Warriors extended their lead to 53-28 midway through the third quarter before Alton staged its late charge.

"We didn't do anything right in the first half," McAfoos said.
